Loretta Luce can read an entire book while sipping a drink in the campus cafeteria. She reads faster than 5,000 words per minute.

Loretta is a BYU sophmore. Although she always has been a better than average reader, she decided she wanted more time for extra-curricular activ-

So she took the Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics course-with truly dramatic results.

Her speed with light reading increased from 462 words per minute to 5.690. And with even better comprehension. But what really pleases her is the way she can now race through her homework.

You have to see it to believe it.

Reading the "old" way-word by word or phrase by phrase - you can never attain really rapid speeds. But when you train your eye to move down the page and read "chunks" of text at a glance there's almost no limit to the amount of material

If it's hard to understand, here's a simple analogy: when you drive a car, you don't consciously look at everything on the road. Your eye takes in the whole scene at a glance and your mind processes the material to tell you what to do.

Or it's like looking at the photograph above. You don't see just a girl and a book-you see the whole picture as a total impression.

So why do we tend to read slowly? We're trained to hear every word we read, and see each word in sequence. Until recently, nobody believed it could be done any other way. It took Evelyn Wood almost twenty years of study to evolve a new reading technique that allows you to read at unusually high rates with no sacrifice of There's no trick. And there's no mystery. We show you what to do, and you practice until the new

You can do it, too!

You probably have one more question-is Loretta an exceptional reader? Not really. Just take a look at the beginning and ending speeds of typical graduates.
